Annie's Project

Risk Management Education
for Women

“Empowering farm women to be better business partners.”

October 23
through November 27

Tuesdays
10 AM—2 PM

A workshop for management and
decision-making in the complex,
dynamic world of agriculture.

Who is Annie?

Annie was a farm woman who lived in a small farming town in Illinois. She spent her lifetime learning how to become involved as a business partner with her farm husband.

What is “Annie’s Project”?

“Annie’s Project” is a 6-week course designed especially for farm women. Sessions will combine lecture, discussion, individual and group activities, and computer training.

This program strives to help farm women gain the understanding and knowledge necessary to be active and involved farm partners.

“Annie’s Project” will also help women find new ways to balance the demands of family, community, and professionalism within the ag community.

Participant Comments About “Annie’s Project”

- ◆ “The concept of Annie’s Project is great. Women need to be better farm business partners. However, often times they have many other things on their plates: family, off farm jobs, community involvement.”
- ◆ “I have more compassion for my husband on a day to day basis.”
- ◆ “I felt this was a very worthwhile class. There was a lot of information that was covered. It was very informative.”
- ◆ “My husband and I talk so much more about farming and farm related topics.”
- ◆ “I now understand how complex it is to be in farming. It’s not just the hard physical labor and bookkeeping. The marketing, crop insurance, time management, goal setting, analysis are also a huge part in being a successful farmer.”
- ◆ “I appreciated that no question anybody asked was a dumb question.”
- ◆ “I believe that I can gain more knowledge about farming and marketing and be more involved in our farming operation—rather than being a silent partner.”
- ◆ “I never knew that there were so many farm wives craving the knowledge to know more about what’s going on—on the farm.”
